PROFILE & MOTIVATION

In today's competitive world, adding value is key to successful businesses. Aware of this fact, and keeping in mind that not only the theoretical gains are important, i brought together the analytical foundations of engineering training to creative communication design, that shaped an entrepreneur, capable and versatile thinking, with a unique and original point of view.

To consolidate the already achieved, and with the desire for more knowledge and experience, i studied in Poland, Brazil and Angola, integrating the plurality of cultures, concepts of emerging markets and different ways of making business.

In this multidisciplinary work, adds a curious personality, dynamic, insightful and persistent, which become the key driver of many skills acquired throughout my career. I highlight the recent experience in project management, marketing and even the advanced knowledge of 18 years in information technology at various levels.

I completed my profile with the academic value of the MBA Atlântico, and in line with my career, i'm looking for a challenge on the domestic or foreign markets, in the areas of administration, marketing, communication and new technologies, in industry or services.
